SENATE ACCEPTS WALSH REPORT

Acceptance Finds Naval Oil Lease Illegal

TIGHTEN LAW

Plays Fall, Sinclair And Doheny

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The Walsh report denouncing the naval oil leases as corrupt and illegal was accepted by the senate investigating committee today.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh, leading figure in the long and sensational "scandal" inquiry was instructed to submit the report to the senate as expressing the views of the committee.

Only a few changes were made in the original as composed by Walsh, who submitted it to the committee after making a public today.

Denounces Lease

His recommendations for tightening existing regulations so as to diminish possibilities of future similar leases of the public domain were stricken out. The committee decided that this should hold over until a final report is made after pending court actions have been disposed of.

The chief features of the Walsh report are:

A severe arraignment of Fall for accepting "bribe" of $25,000 from Sinclair and $100,000 from Doheny, with an attack upon former Secretary of the Navy Denby charging dereliction of duty in failing to investigate the leases before fixing his signature to them.

A suggestion that hereafter no lease of government oil lands should be made without competitive bidding and then only in case the lands are suffering from drainage by adjacent properties.

A requirement that hereafter leases should be passed upon by the committee.

A charge that the leases are "corrupt" without mentioning names of the "bribe" takers.

2 GIRL BANDITS REMAIN IN JAIL

Indicted Houston Maids Unable to Make Bond

HOUSTON, June 4.—Houston's two girl bandits, Vera Bell, 15, and her sister, Vera, 16, were bound over to the grand jury Wednesday afternoon on charges of burglary, felony, theft, and stealing an automobile. Both are hounded in true bandit style.

The girls were arrested May 17 at Des Moines, Texas, in connection with the burglary of more than $400 worth of clothing from the South End Cleaners and Dryers here on May 10 and the alleged theft of an automobile from J. O. Bennett of Houston.

With them, held on the same charges, appeared Jack Bridges and E. F. Ellis, neither of whom is over 20. The two girls told of coming from Illinois to Arkansas with their father, and then to Houston. It was shortly after the father returned to Illinois that the two decided to go back to Arkansas. Bridges and Ellis appeared with the car, and the four started together.

"We didn't know where they got the car and we didn't care," Vera declared. "We got as far as Des Moines, and then officers arrested the boys. We weren't with them at the time of their arrest."

Judge Overstreet allowed bond of $200 in each case, but as the two young sisters had no friends in the city, they were laid back to the county jail, where they have spent the last two weeks.

"It's lonesome in jail too," was their comment.

Being Deputy Different, Gen. Ludendorff Finds

By United Press

BERLIN, June 5.—General Ludendorff is discovering that being a deputy in a republican parliament is a far different thing from being quartermaster general of an imperial army.

Appople with rage, the general stalked out of the reichstag chamber and sought refuge in the bar when socialists shouted at him during today's session.

"Shut your mouth," Ludendorff probably had not been so spoken to in 40 years, and his fury knew no bounds as his reply was drowned in the jeers.

Hats Come Off At Dainty Movie Queen Passes In Busy Day Here

A little girl who can neither talk nor hear despite her affliction today found much to be thankful for.

Marie Smith, 14, living on Sixteenth street, today was the honor guest of Mary Anderson, petite screen star, in a ride over the city. Marie consumed several ice cream sodas, chewed some gum, and ate candy to her heart's content, and was eloquent in her appreciation to Miss Anderson.

Hopes to Hear, too, said Marie is thankful that she can see, although she is deaf and dumb. She said that her blindness, which she said was caused by a "miracle man" who prayed for her to hear, had failed.

Marie told Miss Anderson, talking on her little hands, "I know your voice is wonderful, even though I can't hear it." It was easy to see that the little maid idolized her "Princess Houdini," who came to her as though from the pages of her favorite fairy book.

Miss Anderson found a busy day before her today. Hats came off and hundreds of faces lit up in smiles as the dainty screen star wended her way about town. This business of being a screen star is not all fun and pleasure. You girls who have been thinking to should see which she checks up her numerous engagements.

Even a train can be late once in a while, but Miss Anderson, whose time is not her own, must always be on time or else somebody else must be missed, and she, says it never would do to do that.

Makes "B. L. U.'s" At 1 o'clock this morning Miss Anderson visited the "People's Gas Plant" where she mixed up a few "B. L. U.'s" by means of personally operating a bunch of levers and valves. The heavy compressor roared deafeningly at her touch. Oil sizzled, steam hissed and fires seethed as her small hand grasped the controls.

When Miss Anderson leaves Port Arthur tonight she will take with her a solid, beautiful engraved pencil, the gift of employees at the gas works, this she could write her friends and tell them about Port Arthur that they said.

Then came a trip to The News office where some folks noted for their hardheadedness cracked their heads open in smiles tried to make pretty speeches and finally had to give up, dazed by this bit of femininity.

At 11:45 Miss Anderson took a group of operators out for a ride, and under their hearts pounded with gladness.

At noon she was the guest of the Rotary club, made a talk and kept some of the fellows into taking up the entire floor from being too bored to sleep.

At 2 o'clock she took the little deaf and dumb girl, Marie, out for a ride. Then she went to the Gulf refinery as the guest of officials.

In Port Arthur booster Between acts she flattered about town, smiling, nodding, meeting people and breaking masculine hearts wherever she went. The women found her adorable, the men of greatness and not a bit stuck up over her success as a movie star.

Miss Anderson, making her last theater appearance in connection with the picture in which she is starred at performances tonight. Then, with a last kiss blown from her fingertips she will leave Port Arthur for Galveston for a week's stay.

"I have never been in a city where I was more really entertained and where the people were so good and courteous to me," she declared today. "I feel as though I were a resident of Port Arthur, and genuinely regret my departure."

"After my departure I will be just as big a booster for Port Arthur as any of you, and I mean it," she said.

'MIRACLE MAN' PRAYS FOR MANY

DEAD ARM 'REVIVED'

Victims Claim To Be Helped By Healer Prayers

That his power of performing miracles makes it easy to cure dope addicts within a short time and that people these days suffer from devils within them the same as those in Biblical times were phase advanced last night by Mrs. J. C. Sinclair, "Miracle Man" at the Assembly of God church, 13th and Vicksburg.

Last night saw the greatest crowd and most supplicants at the altar of the healer since services began less than a week ago. Persons who early in the week viewed the proceedings from afar, hoping the "Miracle Man" could effect a miracle, were seen last night to carry their afflictions to the inner circle of the praying disciples.

These were noted later to arise from their knees, tears streaming from their faces, and declaring their faith in the man of God whom they claimed had healed them.

Social Barriers Torn Away

"Skeptics who entered the latter chamber of miraculous healing and emerged, so they declared, rejuvenated and back from the shadow of the grave, were of various walks in life. Human suffering today may all social barriers as the afflicted were treated themselves before the healer and his disciples.

Not with a meek, submissive mien did Rev. Sinclair, last evening, perform his works. Militantly he commanded the "devils of disease to depart from this body." Loudly and impressively he raised his voice in protest against ravages, racking the bodies of his patients. Asking only a simple faith in himself, the healer and his cohorts called down the power of the Deity to sweep away earthly pain.

In the audience, last night were found many who, according to their own testimony were cured through the day. Those drawn with rheumatic pains early in the week, joyfully leaped on limbs they proclaimed again were straight. One woman in particular was loud in her praise of the healer.

"Tonight I feel like I did 20 years ago when a young woman," the woman testified with tears falling from her eyes.

Claims Remarkable "Cure"

There were several in the audience who voluntarily came around, and told the reporter they had been cured of various ailments.

"I heard there were lots of people skeptical of the work being done here. Tell them from me that a poor sick woman who had lost interest in life and prayed for death for three years, stands before you cured from a heart and blood disease which was (Turn to Page 2, Column 2.)

No Emergency For Transfer

Speaking of the contingent fund, Auditor Hall points out that according to the charter, "this contingent fund was created to take care of a contingency or emergency such as a public calamity and it must not be used for any other purpose."

"In checking the vouchers issued during the past fiscal year, we find no expenditures which would indicate that such an emergency had occurred, therefore we question the propriety of this transfer."

"We note this cash balance" ($10,007.12 approximately) "was transferred on authority of a resolution passed by the commissioners. We are unable to agree that a contingency or emergency existed," Hall continues, "and we therefore believe that the amount transferred from the contingent fund should be returned to that fund."

The statement contained in the comments preceding the audit report as made by Hall and Richardson, includes the following:

"Complying with our contract, we have completed the audit of books and records of the city of Port Arthur, Texas, for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1934, and submit herewith the results."

"The books and records of all departments are in such excellent condition as to render unnecessary any extended comments."

"Only a few small errors, of minor importance, have been developed, and these have been properly adjusted by journal entries."

Departments Overdrawn

"The accounts receivable, water and sewer department," are still out of balance with the control account. However, as this difference has remained practically unchanged for the past two or three years, it is evident that it is due to errors of prior years, and we recommend that the control account be brought into balance with the subsidiary ledgers so that if any differences occur in the future they can be definitely located in the year in which they occur."

"During the past fiscal year, the expenses of some of the departments have largely exceeded the budget allowance and the matter is here brought to your attention for whatever action may be deemed necessary."

"We would also direct your attention to the transfer of all cash from the 'contingent fund' to the 'general fund'."

"A careful reading of the charter indicates that this contingent fund was created to take care of a contingency or emergency such as a public calamity, and that it must not be used for any other purpose."

JOHNNIE WALKER HERE

Johnnie Walker arrives at the Liberty theater today in his latest starring vehicle, "Fashionable Fakers." Despite Shakespeare's statement that "one man in his time plays many parts," when an actor attains fame in the interpretation of any distinct role, that is usually the greatest thing that he does during his lifetime. Joseph Jefferson was well-known as Rip Van Winkle, William Gillette, as Sherlock Holmes, and Richard Mansfield as Monieur Beaucaire. Some men have been able to impersonate many short bits of great characterizations with comparative success, but it is unusual for one actor to attain renown in a series of distinctly different characterizations, with one great degree of renown. Yet that is precisely what critics claim for Johnnie Walker in "Fashionable Fakers."

Johnnie has never played two roles alike in his whole brilliant career, and yet each characterization that he has developed has served to elevate his lofty position as a whole scene, winning screen personality.

"GOING UP"

Douglas MacLean found a story in "going up" to call forth all of his screen resources. Robert Street wrote it. Bobby secretly delighted in his fame and did nothing to discourage reports of his prowess in the air. In fact he knew really nothing about airplanes, but his publicity seeking publisher arranged a flight. His pilot, clever chap, struck a bump and stood the machine on its nose before it ever left the earth.

Bobby saved his neck by nearest chance, but never wished to see an airplane again. He sought a country resort to hide his chagrin, met Grace Douglas, a never-been-kissed beauty and fell again.

Julius Galliard, a French ace of aces, also in love with Grace, arrived in his new line for the week end. To bother the Frenchman

NEW ORLEANS, La.—The body of William T. Luck, Jr., 11, who Bobby's misguided friends boosted him as a dare devil flier. On hearing the reports Luck declared "Ze French, ze are ze greatest flyers in France."

Some one proposed a flying match and Bobby's champions realized the joke had gone too far to stop it. Grace admitted the hero for the flights she supposed he had made and cheered him on.

Never was a lover ever confronted by such a perplexing situation. "Don't worry," advised Bobby's pal. "There's twenty ways to get out of this."

"Show me only one," retorted Bob. "Never mind the other nineteen." At the Peace now.

"THE COWBOY AND THE THE"

Ferguson Brothers will offer the first western play of the season tonight at the Garden Airplane.

The play is in four acts with the scenes laid in Arizona. It is a play written along similar lines to Augustus Thomas' play entitled "Arizona." It is not of the "wild and woolly" type but has a good story, thrilling climaxes and excellent comedy situations.

Edward Ferguson as usual will handle the role of the hero, Albert Ferguson will play a stuttering cowboy, Miss Gertrude Woods will enact the part of the "woman in the case," Clyde Armstrong will be the ranch overseer. Cash Tomlinson will play the villain, Chik Kehoe will be the villain's helper, Robert Simms will play a product of the "Auld Sod," and Frances Simms will play an Indian Squaw.

Tonight the ladies will be admitted free providing they are accompanied by one paid admission, and tomorrow night there will be a big amateur contest which bids fair to eclipse all other nights. A distinct novelty will be offered in the form of a genuine bull fight fought on the Airplane stage, two Matadors a la Sunny Mexico will appear to delight the audience.

JAP OVATION TO AMBASSADOR

Public Irritation Not Reflected in Woods' Farewell

TOKIO, June 4.—Japan gave United States Ambassador Cyrus Woods an impressive demonstration of its affection as it bade him farewell at the Tokio railway station today.

Despite popular irritation over the Japanese exclusion clause in the new American immigration law more than 10,000 persons crowded the station plaza and cheered the ambassador as he arrived to take a train for Yokohama, from where he will sail for home tomorrow, following his resignation.

Police were unable to control the enthusiastic crowds which swarmed around the ambassador and his party, giving cheer after cheer.

Hundreds of people quit a wedding celebration near the station to join in a demonstration of esteem for the man who has done so much to foster good Japanese-American relations and whose resignation they feel is a silent protest against the exclusion clause.

High officials, including Baron Matsui, came in person to the station to wish the ambassador bon voyage.

Dallas Youth's Trial Set for Friday, June 13

HOUSTON, June 12.—The case of "Tommy" Wharton, Dallas youth charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, was continued until Friday June 13, yesterday.

Clifford Reinlander, who with Miss Ethel Lake, Miss Annie Dee Mims and Wharton, were riding towards Galveston to the bathing girls rendezvous, when their car overturned, was unable to appear in court. He is still confined to his bed in St. Joseph's hospital here, very seriously injured.

Both girls appeared in court today.

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Straightens You Up Better Than Salivating, Dangerous Calomel and Doesn't Upset You—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Read Guarantee

I discovered a vegetable compound that does the work of dangerous, salivating calomel and I want every reader of this paper to buy a bottle for a few cents and if it doesn't straighten you up better and quicker than salivating calomel just go back to the store and get your money back.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your thirty feet of bowels of the sour bile and constipation poison which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable.

I guarantee that one spoonful of this harmless liquid liver medicine will relieve the headache, biliousness, coated tongue, ague, malaria, sour stomach or any other distress caused by a torpid liver as quickly as a dose of vile, nauseating calomel, besides it will not make you sick or keep you from a day's work.

Calomel is poison—it's mercury—it attacks the bones often causing rheumatism. Calomel is dangerous. It is safe, pleasant and harmless. Eat anything afterwards, because it can not squalid. Give it to the children because it doesn't upset the stomach or shock the liver. Take a spoonful tonight and wake up feeling fine and ready for a full day's work.—Adv.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

HE THAT IS SLOW TO WRATH IS OF GREAT UNDERSTANDING: BUT HE THAT IS HASTY OF SPIRIT EXALTETH FOLLY.—PROV. 14:29.

The Editorial Mind

However,
comma—

Odds and Ends and Comments on Our Morning Mail

As soon as you started to school, you began to hear about the miraculous possibilities of will power. It is necessary propaganda to keep us from becoming discouraged too easily.

Will power is undoubtedly a mighty weapon. But isn't there too much talk about it? Deep down in our hearts, every one of us has a sinking suspicion that the power of the will is exaggerated.

If a new-born baby could see into the future, he'd discover that 50 per cent of his life is cut-and-dried—staged for him by forces and situations that are totally beyond his control, even though he had the will power of Niagara Falls.

We don't need to consult a clairvoyant to learn most of the things that will happen to us. Take the child in school he pores over textbooks that were in the making thousands of years before he was born. It is inevitable that he will receive "Paul Revere," play hide-and-seek and have to take an occasional dose of castor oil.

The child matures into a social and economic system that changes only by the slow processes of evolution. He and his will power have no more to do with the preparation of this system that grinds him in iron claws, than actors have in writing the plays of long-dead Shakespeare.

The system changes as time rolls on, yet the individual is the slave of the system, and it changes only by mass movements of humanity, without regard to the individual and his reputed will power.

Few of the really important things of life are the result of personal will power. Sickness certainly is not acquired by any exercise of the will. Love comes phantom-like, emotional, no will. Marriage occasionally is the result of will power, but usually is following the line of least resistance toward comfort.

Comes, finally, death, and removes us from the stage to make room for another even though we have a will like steel.

In toiling for success, however, will power is mighty. This is its real domain—the acquisition of fame and wealth. Without will power and plenty of it, failure or near-failure is almost certain. But, after all, are fame and wealth the really important things of life? They are dim shadows behind the brilliance of happiness, content and spiritual improvement—the real purpose of life.

A cure for cancer will be discovered in a few years, predicts Dr. Charles H. Mayo. That would save 100,000 lives a year in the United States alone.

The great terror, tuberculosis, will also be conquered in time. Possibly by inventing a way to get sunlight down into the lungs. Exposed to the sun rays, the tuberculosis germ dies in a few minutes.

And after we stamp out cancer, tuberculosis and other dread diseases, nature will send entirely new diseases to take their place. She wants to keep us fighting constantly to survive, and her reserve armies are waiting. They arrive shortly after fatal fevers and smallpox were gotten under control.

The Irish Free State reports a deficit of about 45 million dollars for 12 months. That much was spent more than was received in taxes and other revenues. Ireland couldn't be expected at the start to be able to guess accurately how much money would be needed. A few years of experience will be necessary.

Prosperity and surplus will inevitably come, for the winning of self-government will curb emigration, by which Ireland for generations was drained of her most valuable natural resource—people.

The college boy who loses a hip flask is getting attention. Students are being organized into dry clubs, pledged to uphold the prohibition laws, in many eastern colleges. Members agree to refuse drinks.

This is the only way the coming generation can be kept from Demon Rum. Prohibition is nine-tenths a system of education—of drinking rather than making and selling fire-water.

Several inventors claim they have discovered a "death ray" which, swung like a searchlight, would start fires, explode ammunition and kill enemy soldiers miles away. It's not a new claim. You recall the F-ray, so widely discussed before the World War.

It is frequently suggested that science may make war so deadly and destructive that no nation would dare start fighting. War would become mutual suicide. It's not impossible. But, first, nations would have to agree to have no secrets in their war offices, otherwise there'd be individual advantages.

War, like other evils, is perpetuated by secrecy.

A luxurious poorhouse for down-and-out rich men is opened in New York. It is described as rivaling a first-class hotel in comforts and beauty. Built and maintained by a fund of five million dollars, left by Andrew Freedman, capitalist and baseball magnate who died in 1915.

Back of it all is the principle that if you're never had big money you don't know what you're missing. How about rich men's homes for the old age of people who have always rubbed elbows with poverty? Still better, change the system so there wouldn't be any need for poorhouses. Poverty is incurable in the midst of our tremendous national wealth and prosperity.

4000 JOBS CREATED BY BONUS BILL SHOULD GO TO VETERANS

Bonus legislation created four thousand jobs in the department of the government designed to handle the bonus business. Now why shouldn't four thousand former service men have the necessary qualifications to be given these jobs?

Congress enacted an immigration law. A large appropriation was made to pay for patrolling the Mexican border and four hundred men will be needed. Official Washington says the four hundred will be selected from fifteen hundred men who have qualified under the civil service for positions in the railway mail service.

A man may be eminently fitted for the railway mail service who will make a rotten patrol officer. There is rough riding to be done on the Mexican border and a man who has never mounted a horse will be a sight for the gods and men as a patrol officer.

There are hundreds of cow boys in Texas who would make admirable patrol officers. Why go to the civil service bunch for rough riders or mounted rangers who may have rough work to do. There are thousands of young Americans who were in the cavalry before the coming of the world war who saw service on the Mexican border.

Why not pick four hundred patrol officers from these former service men?

LITTLE DELAWARE'S FAVORITE SON

Little Delaware is not much larger than El Paso county but has two senators and a congressman. Democrats of little Delaware have spoken. They elected six delegates to the Madison Square convention and instructed the delegates to vote for Former Senator Killard Saulsbury for the presidential nomination.

For a hundred years the Bayards and Saulsburies have been the leaders of the democrats of Delaware. It is nip and tuck between the republicans and democrats as to which shall control the state.

When the powder house of Du Pont needs a senator the powder house of Du Pont elects a senator and always a republican. Thomas F. Bayard, the VI is in the senate today from Delaware and now Willard Saulsbury, head of the rival democratic house, has been proclaimed the choice of Delaware democrats for presidential honors.

Whenever the Duponts turn loose their money and favors in Delaware, democrats are kept out of office. Whenever the Duponts grow fat and indifferent and lazy, the Delaware democrats win an election. This year the Duponts are very active.

WHY GO TO FRANCE

A public service gas company in New Jersey has placed an order for 3,000 tons of four and six inch iron pipe with a concern in France. Based on the New York market it is said the contract given to the Frenchmen would involve approximately $150,000.

This is said to be the first time in sixty years that an American gas company has placed an order in Europe for gas pipe. They are working for low wages over there. They are working long hours over there, they are taking long chances over there.

Aliens have been shut out by the national law makers. Of course the logical thing to do is to shut out foreign made goods. High priced American labor cannot compete with low priced foreign labor.

American manufacturers cannot sell all of their products at home. American wheat growers cannot sell all of their wheat at home. They cannot expect to receive world war prices for the wheat that they grow. They cannot make money by raising ninety cent wheat on $200.00 an acre land.

There are 37 wheat growing nations. Now what is going to happen to the American wheat grower in the years to come.

SAMUEL A. RALSTON

Political guessers say that Senator Samuel A. Ralston is the most likely of the dark horses. Ralston will be sixty-seven in December. He is five years older than Underwood, six years older than McAdoo, ten years older than Governor Al Smith and fourteen years older than John W. Davis. If Ralston is to be struck by lightning, a young democrat from the southwest would be an admirable selection for second place on the democratic ticket.

Let us then be up and doing, but not doing either the people or time.

It pays to observe closely. Once in a while a dark horse turns out to be an ass.

Dear Bill: There is. And here she is ready to sport:

Tail oaks from little scorns grow. But strange to say, experience teaches

That such old chestnuts grow into interminable after-dinner speeches.

Mr. Brown took his little granddaughter, Betty, to the barber shop to have her hair cut.

"Now my little miss," said the barber, as he proceeded to run the electric clippers over her head, "we will have you all fixed pretty in a few minutes."

"Top dat!" commanded Betty, "ain't you ter have no vacuum sweeper runned over my head?"

MOTOR NOTE: A political machine may be too well oiled.

AT THE OLD TOWN HALL

Prof. Dr. Stanley Livingston Cook gave an illustrated lecture last night on "My Fifty Years with the Dignities of Trans-Arabia."

Prof. Cook said the location of Trans-Arabia could best be shown by a map, and tapped twice to the table. A handsome picture of the White House at Washington was flashed on the screen.

Our citizens, being 100 per cent Americans, rose to their feet and cheered.

The professor is near-sighted and hard hearing, so this escaped him and he continued his lecture.

The next slide illustrated the national sport of the natives called "Biff-oak," but Master Willie W. loughery, who was running the magic lantern misinterpreted the professor's signal and slipped in a picture of Abraham Lincoln.

The audience again rose to its feet and cheered.

Mr. Fred Tootle, president of the Local Boosters' Club, entered at this moment and, not quite grasping the purpose of the meeting, led the audience in singing "The Star Spangled Banner," which was rendered with a will by all.

It was taken in all, one of the most enthusiastic and inspiring meetings held at the Town Hall in some time, and a rising vote of thanks and the Chautauque salute were given to Prof. Cook.

The next slide illustrated the national sport of the natives called "Biff-oak," but Master Willie W. loughery, who was running the magic lantern misinterpreted the professor's signal and slipped in a picture of Abraham Lincoln.

The audience again rose to its feet and cheered.

Mr. Fred Tootle, president of the Local Boosters' Club, entered at this moment and, not quite grasping the purpose of the meeting, led the audience in singing "The Star Spangled Banner," which was rendered with a will by all.

It was taken in all, one of the most enthusiastic and inspiring meetings held at the Town Hall in some time, and a rising vote of thanks and the Chautauque salute were given to Prof. Cook.

Bandits Wife Claims Secres Of Burial of $600,000 Gem Steal

Mrs. Kit Dalton, Facing Poor House, Says She Is Willing to Surrender Rights For Small Sum

By United Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 5.—Disputed by these last words of her husband, Mrs. Dalton believes that the jewels are undisputed and the jewels can be found. Alone except for a brother in Kentucky she is dependent on charity.

Kit Dalton was a Confederate soldier, a member of Forrest's Cavalry. He was home on a furlough and, unable to return to his home, he became an outlaw.

More than 300,000,000 pairs of shoes were manufactured in the United States in 1929.

She said her husband buried the jewels and before his death on April 3, 1929, gave her a description of the landmarks which his widow believes may lead to finding the treasure.

Mrs. Dalton is willing to surrender her rights to this fortune in gems, if it can be located, for a small sum in cash. She needs the amount to save her from the poor house.

The bandit's widow was found in a bare little room of her old home here. The house is being torn down. Seated in an old broken rocker, she related the story of the reported treasure.

Mrs. Dalton said her husband and six other members of his gang held up a mail train outside of Kansas City and obtained a large amount of silver, gold and a box of jewels.

Dalton and two members of his gang accepted the jewels as their share of the robbery, while the gold and silver was divided among the other three. Pursued by officers, the three outlaws buried the jewels in a woods near Kansas City.

That night two of them were killed. Dalton escaped. A year passed before he was able to return for the jewels. A storm had destroyed the trees and other landmarks near where he buried them. For a year or more Dalton and his wife searched for the jewels.

Dalton at first believed another member of his gang dug up the jewels but just before Dalton died he learned that the suspected outlaw died in poverty.

"Those jewels are still there, they are yours, go get them."

AN INTIMATE STORY OF INTERESTING EMOTIONS REVEALED IN PRIVATE LETTERS. COURTESY 1925—NEW SERVICE INC.

LETTER FROM MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO MRS. LESLIE PRESCOTT.

MY DEAR DAYLIGHTER: I hope you will not think me selfish when I tell you that I shall be glad to see you when you return, and I know that Jack misses you very much. However, he has been very busy since you have been away. He has not had time to have dinner with me but three times, but he has always made quite a party of it—once he invited the minister to dine with us, and twice your friends, Mrs. Ellington and Mrs. Atterton.

I like your lady friends very much, particularly Mrs. Atterton, who at first rather shocked me by appearing so soon after her husband's death in a hat with pink roses on it. However, during the course of the evening she remarked that a business woman had no right to indulge in great grief or great joy to the detriment of her work, and either one of these would be noticed by the stranger who came into the office where she worked daily. I knew immediately that she didn't wear mourning on that account, although I couldn't just realize how she would make her great happiness visible to strangers.

I'm wearing the beautiful caps that Mrs. Ellington had made for me. The other day Miss Anderson and I went down to the library shop. I didn't know that good women wore such delicate and expensive underwear. I rather wondered, as Miss Anderson held up an indescribable garment which she called a teddybear, made of chiffon, what my mother would have said had she seen it—my mother, who always insisted upon us wearing red flannel underclothes in the winter. I know that there was something wrong with the mind of a woman who would wear transparent underclothes, and I have the same feeling.

Neither Miss Anderson nor Mrs. Ellington seemed to think anything about it, so I didn't make any remarks; but to you, my dear daughter, I can unburden myself, because when you were in my house I noticed that

It may be modern filigree, my dear, but I am glad you haven't. By the way, I think I have found a place where that secret drawer might be concealed. At least I have found a place on the outside of the desk that doesn't seem to be filled by a corresponding receptacle on the inside. When you come home I will show it to you and we can open it together if we find I am right.

Little John Alden, Jr., is wonderful. He knows his grandmother already and reaches out his tiny arms to me whenever I come near. He shows signs of trying to walk. I think he will walk and talk very soon. Lovingly your mother, MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT. TOMORROW: Letter from Mrs. Alice Grimshaw to Sally Atterton.

WOMAN WEAK DIZZY, FAINT. Found Relief in Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Always Recommends It.

Bridgeport, Connecticut.—"I was completely run-down, had headaches, dizzy, faint feelings and other troubles women often have. As I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before, my husband said to take it again. I have now taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier, the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I feel very good now and shall continue taking them for a while. I have been telling my cousin about the medicine and she wants to take it, too. I always recommend it."—Mrs. Elmer C. Smith, R. F. D. No. 2, Box 4, Bridgeport, Conn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Smith's experience is but one of many. In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, over 121,000 replies were received, and 98 per cent reported they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

324 YEARS FOR SELLING BOOZE

That's Total Assessed in Chicago Cases

CHICAGO, June 5.—If one man were required to serve the aggregate sentences handed out to booze law violators in Chicago during the last twelve months, he would have permanent board and lodging behind the bars for 324 years, according to Edwin A. Olson, United States district attorney for Chicago.

The total booze law convictions in the twelve months, according to Olson's statement, is 1,704, which gives him the basis for another statement that "prohibition enforcement is doing more than aggravating Chicago's booze lines—it is putting them out of business."

The number of convictions in twelve months is but one record that has been established by the prohibition enforcement department—another is the record established in close premises that housed liquor law violators.

Records on the property injunctions issued show a total of 1386 were issued from May 1, 1933, to May, 1934, and that the property closed for one year by the court action has an aggregate value of $20,000,000. The list includes 16 breweries, in 19 northern Illinois counties and the million dollar De Jonghe hotel, a popular hostelry in the heart of Chicago's loop district.

Olson hails the property injunctions as his most effective weapon against the booze lines. It gives him a means of prosecution much more effective than criminal action and at the same time serves to keep property owners from accepting questionable tenants.

"They are not going to run the risk of having their property closed for an entire year for the sake of a few months rent paid by a booze runner or a brevement distiller," Olson said.

He added:

"In the last few months we have had fewer reports of booze joints than at any time since prohibition and I am confident that the next few months will see a still greater decline in complaints."

HOME IS WRECKED
BY FLY-SWATTER

LOS ANGELES, June 5.—When Mrs. Anna S. Corwin displayed business acumen in investing 15 cents of the community funds in a fly swatter was one of the domestic problems which caused dissension between her husband Fred G. Corwin. It was revealed in Judge J. W. Summerfield's court, where Mrs. Corwin sought a divorce.

Mrs. Corwin declared her husband became angry because of her purchase and told her he could have bought just as efficient a swatter for 5 cents. He then urged that he be allowed to handle the money Mrs. Corwin received from a former husband and she objected, with the result they separated.

Judge Summerfield stated he believed she was entitled to a divorce.

Super-Airship to be Answer Of England to Menace by France

Empire Proposes to Build
Fifty Aerial Leviathans
For Use in Peace And War, It Is Revealed

LONDON, June 5.—Construction of a gigantic super-airship, to be the first of a fleet of British "aerial leviathans"—primarily for commerce but potential for war—is being considered by the cabinet, upon a favorable subcommittee report.

Cabinet approval will mean speedy commencement of construction of a monster dirigible, beside which all preceding aircraft will seem dwarfed things.

The dramatically successful flight of the French aviator, Lieut. Pelletier D'Orge, in passing the British round-the-world flyer, Commander McIlwain, has inspired sentiment here for increased British air-strength.

The dramatically successful flight of D'Orge's ship possible, and with which the new French air-fleet will be equipped, has thrown fear into every air ministry in Europe, because no one else has an engine so capable.

Unless a new conference can be called to limit aerial construction, many European authorities apprehend a race between the great powers for air supremacy which will bring greater expenditures, greater tax burdens, and possible escalation in a greater war—than preceding competitions in naval or military forces.

A Race With France
Officially no government authority here says in so many words that England must enter an aircraft construction race with France. But actually that is the precise meaning of the present plans and the present situation.

The government has already voted a program of large increases in army airplanes—although not sufficient to overtake the French lead. If the super-airship scheme, now being considered, is fulfilled England will surpass any other country in lighter-than-air craft.

The first super-airship will have a capacity of 3,000,000 cubic feet, an air displacement of 150 tons, a carrying capacity of forty-four tons, or of 200 passengers and eleven tons of freight.

It will be able to make a non-stop flight from London to Australia in five days and nights, or to maintain a speed of eighty miles an hour for 10,000 miles without stopping. At a reduced speed of forty-five miles an hour the giant airship can remain aloft 20 days and travel 30,000 miles.

The maximum non-stop cruising range with a light cargo, will be 20,000 miles at forty miles an hour, with a maximum time in the air without lighting of twenty-five days and nights.

Fifty Great Airships
Commander Dennis Burtler, who prepared the plan which has been reported by a cabinet committee and is now before the cabinet itself, recommends that the first air leviathan, if successful, be followed by the construction of fifty similar ships, to establish commercial services to Australia, New Zealand, China, India, South Africa, the West Indies and Canada—every part of the British Empire. Services to North and South America, Japan and other countries would probably follow.

For peace purposes these crafts would have luxurious cabins, bath, dining and smoking rooms, etc., for 200 passengers.

For war, each ship could carry three fighting planes and two torpedo dropping machines, in addition to a large quantity of bombs and the crews of the airplanes which would "hop off" aloft from the mother airship.

The first ship is to be built, if the plan is approved, at the Royal Aircraft Establishment, Farnborough, Hampshire.

The ship will be built in sections, and will be towed to the water by a tugboat.

CHICAGO, June 5.—The life of a prohibition agent is far from being a calm or peaceful existence, if the experience of Bryce Armstrong, head of Chicago's federal "sponge squad," are to be taken as a criterion.

Armstrong, in recent months, has run the gamut of harrowing experiences for, as the arch foe of Chicago's beer runners and booze peddlers, he has been the object of their persecution.

Recently, while Armstrong and members of his family slept, their apartment was bombed. The force of the explosion shattered windows in the neighborhood and hurled Armstrong from his bed. The next morning he named two of the city's king bootleggers as the parties responsible but was without evidence except the fact that they had threatened to "get him."

Before and after the bombing Armstrong approves the scheme, under a combination of private enterprise and air ministry operations, and will be tested out in experimental flights to Egypt and India.

With His Eyes Recovered, George Vassel Actor Has Better Chance Against Field of Wrestlers Who Have Won Here

Port Arthur Elks Meet Fast Sulphur Miners Here Sunday

Baseball Rivals To Clash Again

Skipper From Louisiana Town Shakes Up Squad to Bring Faster Team Here In Next Appearance Against Elks

By BILL ARCHER

SUNDAY afternoon on Lake Shore diamond, the Port Arthur Elks, undefeated by any local contingent, clash with one of the strongest, snappiest contingents that has appeared in the sandlot games staged here when the Miners from Sulphur, La., come to town for their second visit this season.

Baseball rivalry between the Elks and Sulphur has been strong for seasons past. Last year when these two clubs tied up, fans who witnessed their encounters saw the best amateur playing that has probably been exhibited on Lake Shore diamond, and with their initial appearance this year, the same tale was true. In the opening encounter, Sulphur trimmed the Elks by a close score, and the Elks brought them to Port Arthur to even up the count.

Gives Him Better Chance With Bill Ryan

Sulphur seeks revenge. The game, played here on a Sunday not so many weeks ago, drew a crowd estimated variously at between two and 3,000 persons, and the game went to the Elks, 3 to 1, in one of the fastest, cleanest of the local sandlot seasons. A long hit to deep left field that looked dubious to some and fair to others was the deciding factor of the contest, and resulted in the Elks' triumph.

Sulphur is coming back Sunday for revenge, and Sulphur is bringing a different contingent from the one they had when the Miners invaded Lake Shore the first occasion. Skipper John Holsen has shaken up his squad considerably, and a new man on third and one behind the bat, that will make some change in the playing strength of Sulphur. The change is effective, and if anything has resulted in making Sulphur more formidable.

Shake Hitting Stump. Sulphur has been in a hitting slump recently, but the past Sunday managed to shake off the yoke of Hard Luck and step out in front with a mean bunch of clouting willows again, as they have usually been in Port Arthur. Fortunately for Sulphur, the Miners always manage to make their hit count, and they usually are connected up with errors or bad chances for a victory.

The Elks turned out centerally for a routine practice, and are rounding in condition for the Sunday event, the indications being that when the two clubs get together, the week-end will present a better lineup than before. The game will get under way about 3 o'clock. Skipper Cliff Guma will be in command, and the skipper hopes to find enough of a sporting crowd out at the sandlot Sunday to at least defray expenses.

Breaks Aid Golfers In Title Wins

Marston's Ball Hits Spectator and It Helps Him Win at Flossmoor.

FEW golfers ever reach the purple heights without an encouraging smile from the gods of luck. Not that golf is a game where luck always decides the important issues but it often seems that sheer skill is not quite enough.

No one played better golf than Max Marston in the national amateur at Flossmoor last summer, no one was more deserving of victory and yet it is doubtful if the Philadelphia "bad" been in his favor.

It was in the semi-finals, Francis Ouimet of Boston was his opponent. The ball struck one of them and dropped on the green. If the ball hadn't hit a spectator it would have gone on into a trap, out of which Marston would have had to pull a safety shot.

As matters stood he was still on the green, about 40 feet from the hole. That lucky break was a stimulant. Marston proceeded to shock the gallery by sinking the long putt for a birdie two.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Whoooo! Whoooo! went the big horn.

All the Green Woods people were dressed up in their Sunday best at Mister Coon's party.

It was a most fashionable party, and Nancy and Nick and the little fairymen were proud of the coon gentleman and his new radio set.

"Oh, yes, it was Mr. Coon's new radio set that the party was about. Everybody had come to hear a concert."

"Ladies and gentlemen," said Mister Coon importantly, getting up in the middle of the floor where a little square box with a big horn was sitting on a table, "I will now tune in. We shall hear a concert that is going on in New York."

Everybody clapped and Mister Coon bowed and then he pushed in some knobs and pulled out some knobs and turned a thingsamodger.

Where! Whirr! Squeeee—eee—rattle—rattle—rattle! went the big horn, or rather, they were the sounds that came out of it.

"My!" said Mrs. Minnie to Mrs. Groundhog. "They do have queer voices in New York, don't they, Mrs. Groundhog?"

"It isn't just right yet," said Mister Coon. "The air isn't right."

"No, I'd say it wasn't exactly right," grinned Mister Bunny nudging Old Daddy Cracknuts. "I've heard a good many airs but none exactly like that."

Mrs. Coon pulled out some more knobs and pushed in some other knobs and the little lights went blink, and suddenly there was a shriek like the fi o'clock curfew whistle.

"Oh, oh, oh!" shrieked the Green Wood ladies, covering up their ears. "That must be Grand Opera. Such loud singing makes us deaf. Do they always sing that way in New York, Mister Coon?"

Mister Coon blushed. "There is something wrong," he explained nervously. "Sometimes it's a little hard to make it work right."

The Twins and the fairymen tried to help him fix things. "I think it's all right now," said Nick. "Try to get some other place, Mister Coon. It will turn in on Chicago," said Mrs. Coon, "and we will hear a bedtime story."

"That's better," whispered Daddy Cracknuts. "It won't split our ear-drums."

So Mister Coon pulled another handle and instantly a voice came out of the horn, saying, "Once upon a time a little—squeeee—squeeee—squeeee—squeeee—roar—roar—whirr—whirr—whirr—whirr—"

"My goodness!" exclaimed Grandma Frog. "I should think that would waken up all the babies this side of Canada. That's a most remarkable bedtime story!"

"Yes, isn't it?" remarked Mrs. Chipmunk. "Oh, there! Listen, now."

The voice in the horn went on! "And one day he went to school and—bang, whang, squeal, roar, shriek!" It finished with a wall.

"My, my! I'd hate to send my child to that school," said Mrs. Groundhog.

"It's very late and we'll have to be going," said Mrs. Bunny. "Good night, Mister Coon. We've all had a nice time at your party." And out they went—all of them.

But they hadn't any more than turned the corner when the radio set began to behave itself beautifully. The Twins and the fairymen stared and heard ten pieces played by a circus band.

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle RAY

CAMELS AND A BIBLE PICTURE

The people of early England rode on horses, not camels. You could hardly expect them to know what camels looked like. They certainly didn't know, if we may judge by the picture shown today.

This picture is taken from a Bible made (by hand) more than a thousand years ago. It is supposed to show "the wives of Jacob riding into Canaan on camels."

The man who made the pictures for that Bible doubtless felt "stumped" when he had to draw camels. Perhaps he had heard a bit about those animals from travelers. At any rate, he was bold enough to try. The result looks like a mixture of horse and giraffe.

Each "camel" seems to have more of a lion than it is fitted for. Two women seem to be on the point of falling off. It is interesting to see that the women are seated sideways. That proves the side-sitting fashion for women began very far back in history. Other pictures of the same time show that women rode "straddle."

Perhaps you would like to know what kind of names Anglo-Saxon girls and women had. Among them were Elgiva, Brunehild, Esdurga, Godiva and Edith. These names had meanings. Elgiva meant "gift of the elves." Edith meant "the happy girl." Godiva meant "gift of heaven."

An English mark has left a story about an Anglo-Saxon queen named Edith.

"I saw her often during my boyhood," he wrote. "Sometimes it was when I visited my father, who lived in the king's court. I also met her when I was coming from school. Then she would ask me questions about my grammar and verses. In some cases, she puzzled me by showing how much logic she knew. Always she would tell her handmaid to give me two or three coins."
